OVERSEAS STUDIES

Bing Overseas Studies Program

The Bing Overseas Studies Program (BOSP) provides opportunities for Stanford students to broaden their undergraduate education through study in another country and exposure to its culture. Regular quarter-length programs in Australia, Beijing, Berlin, Cape Town, Florence, Istanbul, Kyoto, Madrid, Oxford, Paris, and Santiago offer courses in social and natural sciences, humanities, engineering, and earth sciences with full Stanford credit. Many courses also count toward major requirements and/or fulfill University breadth requirements. Students may enroll for one or more quarters at most locations. Academic or paid internships are available at certain program locations. Research opportunities are available in various formats at different centers. Community-engaged learning and community-based research opportunities are available in Cape Town. Minimum academic and language prerequisites are specific to each program. See the BOSP (http://bosp.stanford.edu) web site for information on these prerequisites.

While studying overseas through BOSP, students remain registered at Stanford and pay regular tuition, along with an overseas fee, which is based on Stanford on-campus room and board rates. Regular financial aid applies, and may be adjusted to cover additional costs. At many centers, students live in a homestay or a dormitory setting with local and other students.

In addition to the programs offered through BOSP for enrolled Stanford students, the University is a member of the Kyoto Consortium for Japanese Studies (KCJS), where students may enroll while remaining registered at Stanford. Overseas Studies also offers three-week faculty-led overseas seminars in various locations during Summer Quarter, two faculty-initiated programs in Oaxaca, Mexico focusing on community health and biocultural diversity, and occasional other such programs in various locations.

Located on the ground floor of Sweet Hall, Overseas Studies has full-time staff members and student ambassadors to assist in advising and planning for overseas study. Course information, while accurate at the time of publication, is subject to change. Consult the BOSP (http://bosp.stanford.edu) web site for updated information.
